The shipowner shall also ensure that the seafarer's right according to the employment contract are complied with. The shipowner shall also ensure that the master has a possibility of complying with the obligations that rest with him. The obligations according to sentence 1-3 shall rest with the shipowner irrespective of whether other companies or persons perform some of these tasks or obligations on behalf of the shipowner.

Subsection 2. Subsection 1 shall apply though another person than the shipowner is the employer. In such cases, the obligations according to the employment contract cf. section 3, and the provisions of the act regulating the conditions of employment shall also rest with the employer.

Subsection 3. Chapter II The employment contract, etc.

1. Validity and termination of the employment contract

Section 3. ¹⁾ The shipowner or the employer shall assign a written employment on terms of engagement to the seafarer. The employment contract shall be signed by both parties. The employment contract shall be written in a specific agreement format, which contains all information on important conditions of the employment. The Faroese Maritime Authority makes decisions on the content and design of the agreement format.

Subsection 2. The master may engage the necessary crew on behalf of the shipowner. Subsection 1 applies to employment contracts concluded by the master. The master shall with regard to the engagement of engine room staff consult the chief engineer officer, when possible. He should also consult the chief mate about the engagement of deck crew and the chief steward about the engagement of catering staff.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ The Minister lays down further provisions stipulating the shipowner's or employer's obligation to assign a written employment on terms of engagement with the seafarer, cf. section 1, under this which information, as a minimum, the employment contract shall contain.

Subsection 4. ¹⁾ As regards fishing vessels, the Faroese Government makes necessary deviations from the provisions in subsection 3. If the wage is according to a wage agreement, it shall be indicated between which trade union the agreement is made, and to which part of the crew it applies.

Subsection 5. ¹⁾⁴⁾ Seafarer signing on a ship shall hold a seafarer's discharge book or a confirmation for signing on and signing off. The discharge book or the the confirmation for signing on and signing off shall be in the seafarer's possession.

Subsection 6. ¹⁾ The seafarer shall, before signing an employment contract, have a possibility of going through it and seeking advice about its conditions.

Subsection 7. ¹⁾ No exception that may encumber the seafarer may be made by agreement from the provisions in section 3, cf. however subsection 4.

Section 4. ¹⁾ No person under the age of 16 shall be employed on board.

Subsection 2. ^{5) 1)} No one may take up service or serve on board until he has been subjected to the medical examination with a satisfactory result, as prescribed for such duty. The employer shall pay the expenses for such medical examination. The condition, however, for the right to reimbursement is that the seafarer prior to this has sailed for at least 6 months on board one of the ships of the employer in question. The Minister lays down further provisions stipulating the medical examinations.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ For the purpose of protecting seafarers below the age of 20, the Faroese Government may deviate from the provisions of sections 5, 6, 7, 11, 19, 20, 27, 55 and 56.

Section 5. ¹⁾⁴⁾ Either party, may, unless otherwise agreed, terminate the employment contract by 7 days notice, cf. however section 19a. No arrangements shall be made to allow the shipowner a shorter term of notice than that to which the seafarer is entitled.

Section 6. ¹⁾ Unless otherwise agreed in respect of place of discharge, the employment contract may only be terminable to expire in a Faroese port of call. Unless otherwise agreed, the contract can only be terminated to expire in a port in Denmark and in Greenland provided that the seafarer is domiciled in Denmark or Greenland, respectively.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ For seafarers not domiciled in the Faroe Islands, or who have not been engaged in the Faroe Islands, the employment contract may also be terminated to expire in a foreign port of call unless that port is entered only for a short call, such as bunkering or landing of sick or injured persons, or for any other reasons to safeguard those on board, the vessel, or her cargo.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ If a time limited service agreement expires while the ship is at sea, the agreement shall remain in force until the ship arrives at a port. However, the service agreement does not expire in foreign ports entered for short calls, cf. subsection 2.

Subsection 4. ¹⁾ If a seafarer with a time limited service agreement continues to serve after the termination of the service agreement and a new agreement concerning port of discharge is not concluded, subsections 1 and 2 shall apply.

Subsection 5. Unless otherwise agreed, the employment agreement on fishing vessels is only valid for one fishing trip at a time, when the fishing trip begins and ends in the Faroe Islands.

Subsection 6. ¹⁾ If a seafarer terminates his service following the shipowner's dismissal or at the expiry of a time limited service agreement in a port outside the seafarer's country of residence, then the seafarer shall be entitled to repatriation with subsistence allowance to his domicile at the shipowner's expense.

Section 7. ¹⁾ Where a seafarer, who has served on board the same ship or on board ships belonging to the same shipowner for 6 months and has given 4 weeks' notice or shorter notice as may have been agreed upon, he may notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary terminate the agreement to expire in any port of call. Discharge shall, however, not be granted during a brief port of call, cf. section 6 subsection 2.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ The seafarer may not serve for a consecutive period on the same ship or on ships belonging to the same shipowner for more than 12 months.

Section 8. ¹⁾ A seafarer who is domiciled in Faroe Islands and who has not had an opportunity during the past 3 months to obtain his discharge in a Faroese port shall be entitled to free repatriation to his domicile provided that he has served on board the same ship or on board ships belonging to the same shipowner for a continuous period of 6 months. The expenses incidental to the repatriation with subsistence allowance shall without delay be covered by the National Treasury and the shipowner, shared equally between them.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ The seafarer shall, however, continue the service for up to 1 month if it is to be expected that the ship within that period will arrive at a port from which the costs for the repatriation will be reduced significantly or the arrangements made easier.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ If a seafarer gives notice of termination or hands in his resignation, any claim for free repatriation shall be made at the latest simultaneously with the notice or resignation.

Subsection 4. The repatriation shall be arranged by the Consulate or by the master if there is no Danish Consulate at the location. If the repatriation is arranged by the Consulate, the master shall on demand provide security for the shipowner's share of the expenses.

1.a Recruitment and placement service for seafarers ¹⁾

Section 8a. ¹⁾ Private recruitment and placement services for seafarers whose primary purpose is to recruit or place seafarers, or which recruit or place a considerable number of seafarers may only be carried out in the Faroe Islands if they are certified to do so by the Faroese Maritime Authority. The Faroese Maritime Authority issues a certificate in connection with approval according to sentence 1 cf. section 72a.

Subsection 2. A shipowner using a Faroese private recruitment and placement service for seafarers shall ensure that the service concerned holds a valid certificate pursuant to subsection 1.

Section 8b. ¹⁾ The Minister lays down further provisions on recruitment and placement service for seafarers in the Faroe Islands, including:

- 1) that the certification is granted for a time-limited period and may be withdrawn,
- 2) that the seafarer, in connection with any recruitment negotiation, shall have the right to freely choose ship, just as a shipowner or a master shall have the right to freely choose his crew, and
- 3) that it shall be evident from the recruitment and placement contract that financial security has been provided so that all interested parties are protected and so that the seafarer is given sufficient opportunity to acquaint himself with the agreement.

Section 8c. ¹⁾ Shipowners using private recruitment and placement services for seafarers in countries that have ratified the ILO Maritime Labour Convention (MLC) or ILO Convention No. 179, the Recruitment and Placement of Seafarers Convention (1996), shall ensure that the services concerned have a certificate or a license documenting that they are operated in accordance with the requirements of the convention concerned. If the country in question does not issue such certificates or licenses to private recruitment and placement services, the shipowner shall ensure another type of official confirmation that the services in question are operated in accordance with the requirements of one of the conventions mentioned.

Subsection 2. Shipowners using private recruitment and placement services for seafarers in countries that have not ratified the ILO Maritime Labour Convention (MLC) or ILO Convention No. 179, the Recruitment and Placement of Seafarers Convention (1996), shall be able to prove that the services concerned meet the requirements for recruitment and placement services pursuant to the conventions.

Subsection 3. The Faroese Maritime Authority may approve that a shipowner uses a private recruitment and placement service for seafarers in countries that have not ratified the ILO Maritime Labour Convention (MLC) or ILO Convention No. 179, the Recruitment and Placement of Seafarers Convention (1996) and require payment for covering the expenses in connection with such approval. The approval shall be given for a time-limited period and may be withdrawn.

Subsection 4. The Faroese Maritime Authority may prohibit the use of recruitment and placement services in specific countries if the recruitment and placement services of the countries concerned do not, in important respects, meet the requirements of the ILO Maritime Labour Convention (MLC) or of ILO Convention No. 179, the Recruitment and Placement of Seafarers Convention (1996).

Section 8d. ¹⁾ Complaints about a Faroese private recruitment and placement service or private recruitment and placement service approved according to section 8c subsection 3 may be brought before the Faroese Maritime Authority.

Section 8e. ¹⁾ Any shipowner may freely procure crew for his ship through the ship's officers or through the ship owner's management, paying due consideration to regulations issued according to section 8b. No requirement may be made for the seafarer to pay a fee for such a service.

2. The seafarer's right to demand discharge ¹⁾

Section 9. ¹⁾ In case of pregnancy, the seafarer shall be entitled to demand discharge if it is considered expedient to herself, to the impending childbirth, or to the child. The Faroese Government may lay down provisions governing the right to obtain discharge and the right to free repatriation with subsistence allowance to the seafarer's domicile in Faroe Islands at the expense of the National Treasury.

Section 10. ¹⁾ If a seafarer after he is employed is informed that his/her spouse or child has deceased or is seriously ill, s/he can demand discharge. In such cases the National Treasury will hold all expenses of the travel home.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ A seafarer shall also be entitled to demand discharge if, after his engagement, he is informed that in another ship he can obtain a position of a higher grade than the one he holds or another position of considerable importance to him, or if he is informed of any other circumstances which render it essential to his interests to be able to obtain his discharge. If the ship is thus made unseaworthy, the seafarer may demand his discharge pursuant to sentence 1 only if a competent substitute can be procured.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ The seafarer shall compensate the shipowner for any expenses incidental to the engagement of a substitute according to subsection 2. The amount claimed in compensation may be remitted in full or in part in consideration of the remaining period of service of the seafarer and the circumstances in general.

Subsection 4. ¹⁾ A seafarer shall be entitled to demand to be discharged if:

- 1) the shipowner has gone bankrupt,
- 2) the shipowner passes away and the estate is brought under the administration of an estate according to chapter 3 in the Administration of Estates Act,
- 3) the company closes down and the shipowner is not able to pay the claim,
- 4) the shipowner has proclaimed suspension of payments, or
- 5) the shipowner has fundamentally violated the seafarer's employment contract and the seafarer has no right to demand discharge according to other provisions of the Act.

Subsection 5. ¹⁾ When a seafarer has been discharged in accordance with subsection 4, the shipowner shall pay the seafarer's repatriation with subsistence allowance to his domicile.

Section 11. ¹⁾ The seafarer shall be entitled to demand to be discharged if:

- 1) the ship is unseaworthy or the crew accommodation is unhealthy and the master neglects to remedy the defects,
- 2) the master neglects to have the ship surveyed in contravention of section 54, or

- 3) the seafarer has been ill-treated on board the ship and the master, although aware of such ill-treatment, has failed to render him protection.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ A seafarer obtaining his discharge pursuant to section 1 shall be entitled to compensation and free repatriation with subsistence allowance pursuant to section 18, subsections 1 and 2.

Section 12. ¹⁾ A seafarer shall be entitled to demand discharge if, after his engagement, it turns out that:

- 1) there is a possibility that the ship can be taken by the parties in war or the ship can be damaged by an act of war or in danger that can be considered to be of similar character or that such danger has actually grown or
- 2) a malignant epidemic disease is prevailing in a port for which the ship is bound.

Subsection 2. It is the duty of the master by posting, or in some other manner to notify the crew of the itinerary of the ship and any changes therein.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ Demands for discharge shall be made as soon as possible after the seafarer has been informed of the circumstances. If the voyage has not been commenced, the seafarer shall be entitled to discharge at once or otherwise in the first port or anchoring place the ship is to call. If the ship is not to call any port or anchoring place before it is expected to pass through areas where circumstances prevail as mentioned in subsection 1, the master shall upon request of the seafarer give him access to sign off if an opportunity occurs to send him ashore.

Subsection 4. ¹⁾ If the seafarer obtains discharge, the shipowner shall pay the expenses for the seafarer's repatriation with subsistence allowance to his domicile or, according to the directions of the shipowner, to the place of engagement. The National Treasury shall reimburse the shipowner 25 per cent of his expenses.

Subsection 5. ¹⁾ Subsection 4 shall not apply if a similar engagement can be obtained on another Faroese ship at the place of discharge.

Section 13. ¹⁾ If a seafarer is engaged for a definite voyage and the voyage is materially altered, the seafarer may demand discharge. The provisions of section 12, subsection 3 sentences 1 and 2 shall apply similarly.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ If the seafarer discharges, he shall be entitled to wages for one month after the termination of the employment. He shall moreover be entitled to free repatriation with subsistence allowance to the place of engagement if he is discharged before the voyage is commenced and otherwise to the agreed place of discharge.

Section 14. ¹⁾ If the ship loses the right to fly the Faroese flag, the seafarer may demand discharge unless otherwise provided in the agreement.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ The same shall apply if the ship is taken over by another Faroese shipowner and the seafarer, upon being asked by the master, announces as soon as possible that he does not wish to continue the service with the new shipowner.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ If the seafarer's agreement is terminated pursuant to subsection 1, the seafarer shall be entitled to compensation and free repatriation with subsistence allowance pursuant to section 18, subsections 1 and 2.

Section 15. ¹⁾ A seafarer who, in accordance with the agreement or with the provisions of this part, is entitled to obtain discharge, shall continue to serve on board in order to assist in the work which must necessarily be carried out when the ship enters a port, but not for more than 48 hours after the arrival in port. This shall, however, not apply in case of leave of service pursuant to section 10 subsection 1.

Subsection 2. If a maritime inquiry is to be held, the seafarer shall remain at the location against wages and subsistence allowance until such testimony has been given.

3. The master's right to dismiss a seafarer, etc. ¹⁾

Section 16. ¹⁾ If a seafarer due to illness or injury is not able to perform his duties it is considered legal absence unless he at the time he was hired deceitfully was hiding the illness or injury, or if he, after he was hired wilfully inflicted the illness or injury as a result of gross negligence.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ A seafarer, who is unfit to perform his duties for a considerable time by reason of illness or injury, or if he has an illness that endangers the persons on board, may be dismissed, regardless of what has been agreed in the employment contract regarding the place of discharge.

Section 17. ¹⁾ The master may dismiss a seafarer if:

- 1) he is found incompetent to perform his duties,
- 2) he fails to join the ship in due time and the ship is to depart, or a substitute must be engaged in his/hers place,
- 3) he is guilty of gross breach of duty such as repeated disobedience, violent behavior towards other persons on board, or drunkenness,
- 4) he is guilty of theft or any other serious crime,
- 5) he causes the ship serious difficulties by concealing persons on board,
- 6) he conceals goods on board the ship which are liable to customs duty or whose export from the port of departure or import to the port of destination is prohibited, or
- 7) he lays a dispute about the employment before a foreign court.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ If the master intends to dismiss a seafarer pursuant to subsection 1, No. 3-7, he shall inform the seafarer of his intention as soon as possible, and not later than 7 days after learning of the situation resulting in the dismissal unless special reasons require that this time limit be exceeded.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ If a seafarer is dismissed pursuant to subsection 1, he shall not be entitled to wages for a longer period than he has served. If on dismissal pursuant to subsection 1, No. 2 it appears that the seafarer cannot be held accountable, and that he is incapable of performing his duties by reason of illness or injury, he shall, however, be entitled to wages pursuant to section 29 subsection 2.

Section 18. ¹⁾ When a seafarer is dismissed on grounds other than those mentioned in section 17, he shall be entitled to two months' wages after the termination of the employment, unless general rules of compensation entitle him to a larger amount. For fishing vessels the aforementioned wage is stipulated by his share in the contract multiplied by the minimum wage.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ In addition, the seafarer shall be entitled to free repatriation with subsistence allowance to the place of residence at the expense of the shipowner. Where a definite port of discharge has been agreed upon, the seafarer shall be entitled to free repatriation with subsistence allowance to that port.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ Subsections 1 and 2 shall not apply where a seafarer is dismissed by notice in a place of discharge agreed upon or provided by section 6 according to the decision of the master before the expiry of the time-limit with wages and subsistence allowance till the expiry of that limit.

4. Termination of agreement in case of loss of ship

Section 19. ¹⁾ If the ship is lost due to a marine casualty, or if it is considered beyond repair after such casualty, a seafarer's agreement shall terminate unless otherwise provided in the agreement. The seafarer shall, however, in return for wages and subsistence allowance participate in the salvage and remain at the location until maritime inquiry has been given.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ If the service is terminated in the aforesaid manner, the seafarer shall be entitled to the necessary clothes and free repatriation with subsistence allowance to the place of residence at the expense of the shipowner.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ During the repatriation mentioned in subsection 2, the seafarer shall be entitled to wages. In addition, he shall be entitled to wages during the period in which he is unemployed by reason of the loss of the ship, but not for more than two months over and above the period during which he is paid wages pursuant to section 1.

4a. Seafarer's rights in case of piracy or armed robbery ⁴⁾

Section 19a. ⁴⁾ Where a seafarer is held captive in connection with piracy or armed robbery the employment contract shall be valid for the entire period of the seafarer's captivity. The same shall apply, though the employment contract expires in the period or one of the parties have given notice of termination.

Subsection 2. Seafarers shall be entitled to wages and other allowances pursuant to the employment contract, the relevant collective bargaining agreement or other allowances pursuant to Faroese legislation for the entire period of the seafarer's captivity.

Subsection 3. When released, the seafarer shall be entitled to free repatriation with subsistence allowance to the place of residence at the expense of the shipowner.

5. Some general provisions in relation to discharge

Section 20. ¹⁾ If the authorities in a foreign port where a seafarer is to be discharged do not allow him to enter the country or make his entry conditional upon a security which he cannot find, he shall continue to serve on board until the ship arrives at a port where his discharge may be effected. The seafarer shall also be entitled to remain in the service provided this would not be held to be unreasonable.

6. Payment and calculation of wages

Section 21. ¹⁾ Wages shall run on and from the day on which the seafarer commences his service on board. If on demand of the shipowner he surrenders his discharge book or passport before the service is commenced, or if he must undertake a journey from the place of engagement in order to join the ship, wages shall, however, run on and from the day on which the surrender takes place or the journey is commenced.

Subsection 2. Wages shall run up to and including the day on which his service terminates, or, if he is to be discharged after the said day, up to and including the day of discharge.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ Wages shall not accrue for any time during which the seafarer unlawfully evades service.

Section 22. For the purpose of calculating wages for part of a month, the daily wage shall be reckoned as one-thirtieth part of the monthly wages.

Subsection 2. If wages are fixed at a definite amount for the voyage, the entry in the agreement about the estimated duration of the voyage shall apply to cases where wages are to be calculated according to time.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ Should the voyage prove to be of shorter duration than anticipated at the time of engagement, the seafarer shall be entitled to the full amount of wages agreed upon. Should the voyage prove to be of longer duration than anticipated, he shall be entitled to a proportionate addition unless otherwise agreed upon.

Subsection 4. Wages on fishing vessels for part of a fishing trip will be calculated as the higher amount of:

- a. part of the catch calculated in the usual manner for the period during which the seafarer has been serving on board, or
- b. part of the catch during the fishing trip, calculated as a relative share for the period during which the seafarer actually served on board in relation to the duration of the fishing trip.

Section 23. ¹⁾ In case a whole voyage or part of a voyage is performed with less crew than anticipated at the time of engagement, or in case the able-bodied crew is reduced during the voyage, wages saved for the time the ship is at sea shall be divided equally among the seafarers belonging to the group of crew which has been reduced in numbers, unless it is proved that the group has not had to perform additional work by reason of such reduction.

Subsection 2. From the wages saved, deduction shall be made of any amount by which the expenses in connection with overtime pay may be increased by reason of such reduction of the crew.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ The right of a seafarer to a share in the saved wages shall not exceed the amount of the wages accruing to him.

Subsection 4. If there is only one mate left on board, any mate's wages saved shall be divided equally between that mate and the master.

Section 24. ¹⁾ Wages shall be paid at a maximum of one month's interval, cf., however, subsection 6 concerning fishing vessels.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ A seafarer can only demand payment of wages when the ship is in port, and in the same country only once every seventh day.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ Wages shall be paid in cash unless the seafarer demands a draft on the shipowner. Payment may be demanded in local currency at the current rate of exchange.

Subsection 4. ¹⁾ A seafarer may require that wages be paid by means of monthly allotments in favour of a specified person. He may, however, not require payments to be made under more than three concurrent allotment notes.

Subsection 5. ¹⁾ A seafarer may require that the entire wage or a part of it is transferred to one or more banks.

Subsection 6. ¹⁾ In the case of fishing vessels, the shipowner gives the crew settlement and profits not later than 2 weeks after the catch has been landed and sold. In the case that the catch from a fishing trip has not been sold within 4 weeks, the crew shall be settled provisionally, and the fishing trip shall be made up as precise as possible.

Section 25. ¹⁾ Without the consent of the seafarer, deduction from wages may, apart from such amount as the shipowner shall be bound by statutory provisions to withhold, only be made as regards amount to meet compensation claims which he has incurred during his service. Deduction shall be made from wages paid to the seafarer in preference to wages paid by way of allotment unless the seafarer should decide otherwise.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ The shipowner shall not require that the seafarer, when concluding the employment contract or in connection with his signing on, pays an advance payment to cover the expenses for his repatriation.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ The shipowner may only deduct expenses for the repatriation from the wage, etc., when it concerns termination under section 17, and the shipowner has affirmed that the seafarer has fundamentally violated his duties in the employment.

Section 26. ¹⁾ The seafarer shall be given a monthly account of wages earned, including additional payments, wages paid and the rate of exchange if payment has been made in any other currency than the one agreed upon.

7. Nursing and sickness wages

Section 27. ¹⁾ A seafarer shall submit himself to an examination by a medical practitioner upon demand of the master.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ If there is a reason to believe that a seafarer is suffering from an illness, the master shall, if practicable, have him examined by a medical practitioner.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ Medical examinations pursuant to subsections 1 and 2 shall be made free of expenses to the seafarer.

Subsection 4. ¹⁾ If a seafarer suffers from illness or has been injured, the master shall see to it that the seafarer receives proper care on board or ashore, including subsistence allowance, medical treatment and medical advice.

Subsection 5. ¹⁾ If there is reason to believe that a seafarer is suffering from an illness which involves danger to those on board, the master shall have him brought ashore provided that satisfactory precautions against the danger cannot be taken on board.

Subsection 6. ¹⁾ In case a seafarer who is ill or injured cannot take care of his personal belongings, the master shall keep them in his care and send them to the seafarer or to his next of kin.

Subsection 7. ¹⁾ When a seafarer who is ill or injured is left behind abroad, the master shall leave him in the care of the local consul, or if there is no Danish consul at the location, then ensure him proper care otherwise, and notify the nearest Danish consul. Upon request of the seafarer the master shall inform his next of kin.

Section 28. ¹⁾ When in a foreign country the master, leaves a sick or injured seafarer in the care of a Danish consul, the consul may demand security for the expenses to be defrayed by the shipowner pursuant to sections 30 and 34 for the care and burial of seafarers.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾ The master shall deliver to the consul any amount to which the seafarer is entitled or to which he may be entitled under the provisions of section 29 subsection 1.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ The seafarer may request wages to which he is entitled to be handed over to him, unless such wages shall be anticipated to be applied towards the payment of expenses incurred on behalf of the seafarer, or if he is in a condition that makes him unfit to take care of his own affairs.

Section 29. ¹⁾ During service, the seafarer shall be entitled to wages even though he is unfit to perform his duties due to illness or injury.

Subsection 2. ^{1) 4)} In case a seafarer is suffering from illness or injury at the time of termination, the following rules shall apply:

- 1) Sickness wages shall continue for as long as the person concerned suffers from illness, however for a minimum of 16 weeks after the service on board terminates. This applies irrespective of whether the employment terminates before the expiry of the 16 weeks.
- 2) In case the employment terminates after the expiry of 16 weeks calculated from the termination of the service on board, the sickness wages shall continue until the termination of the employment.
- 3) If the seafarer becomes incapacitated while he is not employed on board on one of the shipowner's vessels, the 16 weeks shall be calculated from the day the incapacity occurred.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ If specific signs of illness or bodily injury have not been demonstrated, the seafarer shall not be entitled to wages for more days than he has served. If the incapacity is due to venereal disease the wages shall be paid by the National Treasury.

Subsection 4. ¹⁾ Wages shall not accrue under subsections 1 or 2 for any time during which the seafarer is unfit to perform his duties by reason of illness or injury which he fraudulently suppressed at the time of his engagement. The same shall apply if the seafarer receives an injury or contracts an illness, apart from venereal disease, after his engagement as a result of his own wilful act or gross negligence.

Subsection 5. ^{3) 1)} If a seafarer is pregnant, when the contract is terminated, she has the right to wages as long as she is without work, however, not more than 2 months. This is however not valid, if she at her day of employment was hiding her pregnancy, or she for sure knew she was pregnant.

Section 30. ¹⁾ As long as the seafarer is employed on board, the shipowner shall defray all expenses with respect to the care of the seafarer subject to the exceptions mentioned in subsections 4.-6.

Subsection 2. ¹⁾⁴⁾ In case a seafarer is suffering from illness or injury at the time of termination of the employment, he shall, except as provided in subsections 4. – 6. be entitled to care on the account of the shipowner for a minimum of 16 weeks, however, only as long as the seafarer suffers from illness and not exceeding 2 weeks after the arrival in the country in which he is domiciled. This period shall be reckoned from the date of discharge or, if he is not discharged, from the date on which the ship departs.

Subsection 3. ¹⁾ If a seafarer is discharged on account of illness or injury, or if at the time of leaving the ship he is suffering from such illness or injury as may cause discharge, he shall be entitled to free repatriation with subsistence allowance to his domicile at the expense of the shipowner. If the seafarer is not domiciled in the Faroe Islands, the shipowner may choose to provide free repatriation with subsistence allowance to the place where the seafarer was staying at the time of the engagement, unless the authorities at that place will not allow the seafarer to enter the country or make his entry conditional upon a security which he cannot find.

Subsection 4. ¹⁾ The seafarer is not entitled to care or free repatriation as provided in subsections 1.-3. if the seafarer fraudulently suppressed the illness or injury at the time of his engagement. The same shall apply if after his engagement he contracts an injury or an illness, apart from venereal disease, through his own willful act or gross negligence.

Subsection 5. ¹⁾ If a seafarer, domiciled in the Faroe Islands, suffers from a venereal disease or from tuberculosis, the National Treasury shall carry the expenses related to the care and the repatriation provided for in subsections 2. and 3, cf. subsection 4.

Subsection 6. ¹⁾ The shipowner or the National Treasury shall not carry the expenses pursuant to subsections 2. and 3. cf. subsection 4, insofar the seafarer is insured in a public health insurance company or association, or in a private insurance company or any social insurance scheme.
